

Qualitative versus Quantitative Lumbar Spinal Stenosis Grading by Machine Learning Supported Texture Analysis—■Experience from the LSOS Study Cohort

|                           |                                                                                                                                                           |
|---------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Authors:                  | Florian A. Huber, Shanon Stutz, Ilaria Vittoria de Martini, Manoj Mannil, Anton S. Becker, Sebastian Winklhofer, Jakob M. Burgstaller, Roman Guggenberger |
| Publication / Venue:      | European Journal of Radiology                                                                                                                             |
| Year:                     | 2019                                                                                                                                                      |
| DOI:                      | 10.1016/j.ejrad.2019.02.023                                                                                                                               |
| Primary Source URL:       | https://www.jmir.org/2024/1/e54676/                                                                     |
| Inventory Category:       | Early ML / CAD                                                                                                                                            |
| Comparability / Priority: | Very High   Priority: Important                                                                                                                           |

Study Details & Methodology from Literature Inventory

|                          |                                                                           |
|--------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Study Type / MRI View:   | ML diagnostic study   Lumbar MRI                                          |
| Dataset & Cohort:        | LSOS cohort (Sample: None)                                                |
| Disease / Target:        | Lumbar spinal stenosis                                                    |
| Model / AI Method:       | Texture analysis + decision tree                                          |
| Evaluation Metrics:      | None                                                                      |
| Key Finding / Relevance: | None                                                                      |
| Thesis Context (Ch 2):   | Shows non-CNN quantitative alternatives within the same clinical problem. |

Abstract / Summary

No abstract could be retrieved automatically from open-access indexes. Full text remains behind publisher paywall; please see primary source URL above.